

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Voting District Lines Defined and County Clerk Will Designate Places.

NEW ARRANGEMENT HELPS THE COUNTY

Municipal Officials Are Busy Collecting Data with Reference to M Street Sewer Suit—Bond Deal Is Closed at Last.

Now that the city council has passed an ordinance defining the lines of the voting districts all that remains to be done after Mayor Kelly signs the ordinance is for the county clerk to designate the places where voting will be done this fall. Under the ordinance each of the two wards has two voting districts. This increase of the voting precincts from nine to twelve will assist greatly in the counting of the vote, and the precincts have of late been greatly overcrowded, but the addition of three precincts will, in a great measure, alleviate this.

It was thought at the time the ordinance was introduced that there would be complaints from politicians about the district boundary lines, but the committee in charge of the ordinance made no change in the original document and therefore it was passed without question.

The wards are divided as follows: First Ward—All east of Twenty-first street is District No. 1 and all west of the same street is District No. 2.

Second Ward—All east of Twenty-first street is District No. 1 and all west of the same street is District No. 2. Third Ward—All east of Twenty-first street is District No. 1 and all west of the same street is District No. 2.

While the city clerk will designate the places for the three days' registration which will be held this fall it devolves upon the county clerk to secure the places where the ballots at the coming election will be cast.

On account of the increase in the number of districts the cost of registration will run up to $100 a day, or $324 for the three days. This sum will be paid to the members of the registration board. In addition to this there will be the cost of books and various other supplies. As a general thing members of the registration board are paid $3 a day each, but in some cases where there has been an entirely new registration, as there is to be this fall, the compensation has been raised to $5 a day. It is expected that the registered voters this year will be between 5,000 and 6,000 and if so the registrars will have considerable work to do.

As soon as City Clerk Shrigley returns from the west he will commence casting about for suitable registration booths.

Still Collecting Evidence. City officials are still collecting evidence in the N street sewer suit which is to come up shortly. As has been mentioned before, an effort is being made by certain property owners to force the city to pay for the sewer on Twentieth street east to the river by having the open sewer condemned as a nuisance.

A vast amount of evidence has been collected by the legal department which will be used in court to combat the assertions of the complainants that the sewer is a nuisance, or open sewer is a nuisance.

Yesterday City Engineer Beal measured flow of water at the N street sewer. At the head of this sewer, which is at Nineteenth and N streets, the flow was found to be seven and a half gallons a minute. Measuring just below Curo springs, where there is less than half a block east of the mouth of the sewer the engineer found a flow of 140 gallons a minute.

After the tests had been made it was stated that the flow of the springs was sufficient to carry off the sewage. Little if any odor was detected either at the mouth of the sewer or lower down the stream.

Bonds Finally Delivered. The issue of $50,000 general indebtedness refunding bonds was delivered to the purchaser, G. W. Hoobler of Omaha, yesterday afternoon. Mayor Kelly spent the greater portion of the day in arranging the details of the transaction and just before the bonds were delivered the state seal was made. The issue is dated June 1 and is for $50,000. In addition there was a premium of $313 and accrued interest to the amount of $532. Thus the city received by check from Mr. Hoobler the sum of $50,545. As the bonds must be held for six months the agency in New York City the city was expected to pay for the transportation and insurance of the bonds. This amounted to $37.50. By an arrangement with Mr. Hoobler the city paid $25 of this amount as he paid the balance. This leaves the city with $50,520 to show for the issue.

Mr. Hoobler assisted yesterday, as he has before, that he was not to blame for the delay and Mayor Kelly and other city officials are of the opinion now that he was not.

More Railroad Grading. A new grading outfit is camped on Commercial avenue in the northern part of the city and it is understood that the Union Pacific will do considerable work near the summit. More room for tracks will be made and arrangements completed for connection with the Elkhorn road at or near A street. About 300 men are now at work in the northern and northwestern part of the city, while about 100 men are employed in making improvements to the Union Pacific tracks between the Sarpy county line and the Q street viaduct.

New Boulevard. Property owners on Twenty-third street are urging the city council to take the necessary steps to declare Twenty-third street from the city limits on the north to J street on the south a boulevard. Plans are being prepared to park this street and it is stated that if it is made a boulevard the trees can be planted and cared for out of the county road fund. As the petition is signed by nearly all of the property owners on the street it is thought that the council will give the matter favorable consideration.

Broderick Bound Over. After a hearing lasting all day Police Judge King bound Paul Broderick to the district court in the sum of $10,000 for an alleged assault upon Anna Weisenberg. The case attracted a great deal of attention and the court room was crowded all day. Attorneys for Broderick contested the case at every possible point, but the story told by Anna Weisenberg was so clearly stated that Judge King felt that it was his duty to hold the defendant for further examination.

The hearing of John Gillin, another of those said to be implicated in the assault, will come up for hearing Thursday.

Work on the steel viaduct to be erected across Thirty-sixth street on the county road in the northwestern part of the city is progressing slowly. Owing to the immense amount of work being done in the vicinity by the Northwestern road, the receipt of material for this bridge has been delayed somewhat. Now several of the big stone piers have been sent and in a week or two the foundations will be ready for the steel framework. These piers are built upon a heavy base of concrete. The center piers are now finished and the construction of the piers for the approaches is now under way.

Magie City Gossip. A son was born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Ed Scott, 306 North Twentieth street. Fred Dientbier is again with the Nebraska and clothing house, Twenty-fifth and N streets.

Colonel J. C. Sharp returned last evening from a tour of duty in the S. D., where he spent a couple of weeks.

Mrs. J. M. Tanner will entertain the New Century club at her home, Twenty-fourth and B streets, this afternoon.

Mrs. Ed Burke has gone to Wisconsin to visit friends. From there she will go to the west for a few weeks' visit.

Miller & Preston have secured a city license to haul garbage and have entered into a bond of $1,000 with the city.

John F. Schultz, Councilman August Miller and H. E. Wilcox have gone to Lincoln to attend the state convention.

And now Judge R. B. Montgomery comes out and says that he is not a candidate for county judge at the democratic ticket.

St. Action was taken by the council Monday night on the report that a number of saloons are still operating without a license.

Frank Cook, paying teller at the Packers' National bank, left yesterday for a two weeks' vacation, which he will spend in the west.

On Wednesday, September 3, between the hours of 9 a. m. and 12 m. certain points in the South Omaha high school will meet in the office of the principal for the purpose of being adjusted and located according to the requirements of the board of study. A more detailed notice will be issued to the pupils Monday.

Amusements. Norris & Rowe's shows.

Norris & Rowe's trained animal show opened a four days' engagement yesterday afternoon, at Eighteenth and Douglas streets. Two performances will be given daily, afternoon and night. In the afternoon yesterday, the attendance was only fairly good, at night the tent was packed, and the indications are that the show will prove a strong drawing card the remainder of its stay, for it is conceded by all who have seen it to be the biggest attraction of its kind ever brought to Omaha.

All of the Norris & Rowe animals are performers, one of the most unique entertainers being a goat that rides a horse around the ring jumping a hoop and cutting up other capers which would never be expected of that much reviled animal. Another goat walks a slack wire, but he has taken on so much volubility recently that his walking is not so graceful as it once was. This well-nourished goat has been with the show ten years. A monkey jockey, riding on the tips of his hind legs and with his hip in his outstretched hand, is another fairly good feature. The monkey is more like a human than any other of the species ever seen in Omaha. To enumerate all of the good things in this aggregation of trained animals would require voluminous space, everything from the smallest dogs to elephants being specially drilled in the art of entertaining. The horses are particularly fine. There will be a street parade every morning at 11 o'clock during the remainder of the engagement.

It is a difficult thing to decide which is best in a show where everything is first-class. The grand entrance was proof and promise for the entire performance. The ponies drilled, marched and counter-marched and formed figures that would put many a company of soldiers to shame. The dogs did all the tricks that dogs can possibly do. The seals gave each other their flippers with all the courtesy of the quarterdeck of a man-of-war. Archie Fargo, the elephant, walked along the top of wooden columns not as large as the bottom of his feet, packing his trunk across them too, and did other equally astonishing feats. The dogs and ponies were organized as a fire department and rushed to a fire with much clapping and uproar. "Soos," with his clown band, was funnier than the German band of the theaters, and the entire show was admirable and interesting from first to last.

Customs Collector Arrested. TUCSON, Ariz., Aug. 27.—United States Collector of Customs William Hoy was arrested last evening at Nogales by a deputy United States marshal for carrying on a smuggling business from Mexico into the United States. His hearing has been set for Thursday.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Ordinance Relating to Seloore Case Is Up for Consideration.

SEEKS TO AMEND POLICE REGULATIONS

Resolutions Bearing on Sixteenth Street Paving Is Adopted Under Suspension of the Rules—Other Happenings.

All the members of the city council except President Karr were present at the regular weekly meeting last night, which proved to be one of the busiest sessions of the summer season.

An ordinance designed to take the props from under the mandamus case brought in the district court by Nels Seloore against the chief of police, was read for the first and second times, and referred to the judiciary committee. The ordinance amends section 44 of chapter 42 of the revised ordinances of 1890 by striking out that portion which requires the chief of police to report the names of keepers and inmates of immoral houses to the police judge on the first of every month and file proper complaints against them so that they may be fined. The Seloore mandamus case is based on this provision of the ordinance, which may be reached before a hearing of the case is held in the district court.

And now Judge R. B. Montgomery comes out and says that he is not a candidate for county judge at the democratic ticket.

St. Action was taken by the council Monday night on the report that a number of saloons are still operating without a license.

Frank Cook, paying teller at the Packers' National bank, left yesterday for a two weeks' vacation, which he will spend in the west.

On Wednesday, September 3, between the hours of 9 a. m. and 12 m. certain points in the South Omaha high school will meet in the office of the principal for the purpose of being adjusted and located according to the requirements of the board of study. A more detailed notice will be issued to the pupils Monday.

Amusements. Norris & Rowe's shows.

Norris & Rowe's trained animal show opened a four days' engagement yesterday afternoon, at Eighteenth and Douglas streets. Two performances will be given daily, afternoon and night. In the afternoon yesterday, the attendance was only fairly good, at night the tent was packed, and the indications are that the show will prove a strong drawing card the remainder of its stay, for it is conceded by all who have seen it to be the biggest attraction of its kind ever brought to Omaha.

All of the Norris & Rowe animals are performers, one of the most unique entertainers being a goat that rides a horse around the ring jumping a hoop and cutting up other capers which would never be expected of that much reviled animal. Another goat walks a slack wire, but he has taken on so much volubility recently that his walking is not so graceful as it once was. This well-nourished goat has been with the show ten years. A monkey jockey, riding on the tips of his hind legs and with his hip in his outstretched hand, is another fairly good feature. The monkey is more like a human than any other of the species ever seen in Omaha. To enumerate all of the good things in this aggregation of trained animals would require voluminous space, everything from the smallest dogs to elephants being specially drilled in the art of entertaining. The horses are particularly fine. There will be a street parade every morning at 11 o'clock during the remainder of the engagement.

It is a difficult thing to decide which is best in a show where everything is first-class. The grand entrance was proof and promise for the entire performance. The ponies drilled, marched and counter-marched and formed figures that would put many a company of soldiers to shame. The dogs did all the tricks that dogs can possibly do. The seals gave each other their flippers with all the courtesy of the quarterdeck of a man-of-war. Archie Fargo, the elephant, walked along the top of wooden columns not as large as the bottom of his feet, packing his trunk across them too, and did other equally astonishing feats. The dogs and ponies were organized as a fire department and rushed to a fire with much clapping and uproar. "Soos," with his clown band, was funnier than the German band of the theaters, and the entire show was admirable and interesting from first to last.

Customs Collector Arrested. TUCSON, Ariz., Aug. 27.—United States Collector of Customs William Hoy was arrested last evening at Nogales by a deputy United States marshal for carrying on a smuggling business from Mexico into the United States. His hearing has been set for Thursday.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

On the morning of March 13, 1899, relates "A Graduate" in the Ladies' Home Journal, news of special import from the Philippines came to the United States. In a certain half-hour's fighting, thirty-seven volunteers had been shot—killed and wounded. Scattered through six different states that morning nine men read the name of a college classmate in the list, and for the first time in all their lives, grew serious. The news of the fighting was not only only and relief in the climate of Oregon. There his mother will live with him.

EIGHTH WARD REPUBLICANS

Club Holds Initial Meeting of Present Campaign and Elects Officers—Tracy for President.

GREAT CROWDS WITNESS THE SPECTACLE

Twelve Divisions March Through the Principal Streets of Louisville—Admiral Schley Sends Regards.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 27.—A parade of 30,000 plumed and mailed knights, marching to the music of three-score brass bands, today marked the formal opening of the twenty-eighth triennial convocation of the grand encampment of the Knights Templars.

Nearly 100,000 visitors were in the city. The day dawned with a clear and cool sky, the air knights were early astir. The weather was, in fact, a fulfillment of the wish expressed in a message of regret from Rear Admiral Schley, who is a Knight Templar, as follows:

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 26.—John H. Leathers, grand marshal, Louisville, 30,000 plumed and mailed knights, marching to the music of three-score brass bands, today marked the formal opening of the twenty-eighth triennial convocation of the grand encampment of the Knights Templars.

The parade started at Seventh and May streets and moved up May to Brook street, where officers of the grand encampment in carriages joined the marchers. Then the paraders moved up Market street, Sixth, Jefferson, Fourth, passing the Court of Honor, Chestnut street, Floyd, Broadway, Fourth, passing under the grand arch, Kentucky street, Third, Hill, Fifth, St. James Court and Central park, where the parade disbanded.

The sidewalks were a solid mass of spectators, while every window along the course and every other vantage point was occupied to the limit.

Magnificent Spectacle of Color. The parade was a magnificent spectacle of life and color. Mile after mile of tossing plumes and fluttering pennons and band after band discoursing stirring marches held the crowd of spectators jammed against the wires till the last knight left the ranks.

A detachment of mounted police led the march, Grand Marshal J. H. Leathers and his aides following immediately behind. Then came the grand commandery of Kentucky, acting as a special escort